Creating New Deck from a Document with Copilot in PowerPoint

Creating a Deck from a Word Document

- Start a new deck using a blank presentation or a template, if you have any.
- Hover over the Copilot button in the bottom right of your screen.
- Select “Create Presentation about...” and start typing the file name after “/” or paste the file link
- Answer any questions that Copilot will have, like on structure or style.
- Copilot in PowerPoint will create the deck for you, review and adjust as needed

Adding a new slide with Copilot in PowerPoint

Add a new slide to the Deck

- Copilot will create the new slide below the slide that is currently selected.
- Select the slide. In our case will be the last slide.
- Type the Prompt:

"Create a new slide thanking everyone for attending the Boulder EV eBike Market overview presentation. Let everyone know it is time for Q&A. Q&A will last for 10 minutes. They are welcome to ask any questions."

Formatting the deck with Copilot in PowerPoint

PowerPoint Designer and Copilot

1. Designer and Copilot work hand in hand.
2. You can use Designer with your Copilot generated slides to further improve your slide layouts.

Organizing the Deck with Copilot in PowerPoint

Organize the Deck

- Type the Prompt:

“Organize the Presentation”

- Choose from the options given. Hit "confirm" when done.
- Review the sections and new slides to make sure are grouped accordingly.

1 question answered

What does "organize the presentation" mean for you here? The slides already run in agenda order, so I want to target the right thing.

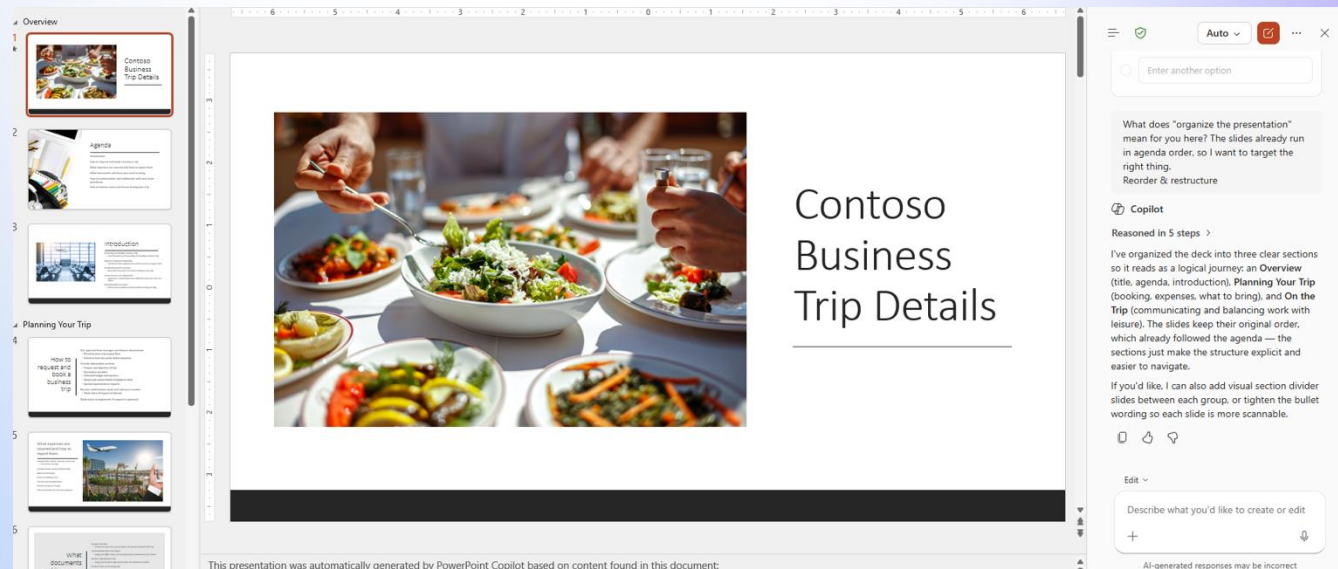

☐ Tidy formatting
Make titles, bullets, spacing, and styling consistent across all 8 slides without changing the content or order.

☒ Reorder & restructure
Reorder slides, group related content, and add section breaks for a cleaner flow.

☐ Tighten the content
Trim and clarify the bullet text on each slide so it's more concise and scannable.

☐ Full cleanup
Do all of the above — consistent formatting, better structure, and tighter wording.

☐ Enter another option

Analyzing the Deck with Copilot in PowerPoint

Ask Questions about the deck

- Hover mouse over the Copilot icon in the bottom right of the screen.
- Click on "Summarize this deck"
- Or open Copilot and type the Prompt:

"Show the Key slides"

The screenshot shows a PowerPoint presentation titled "Contoso Business Trip Details". The main slide features a photograph of hands serving food at a table. The left sidebar shows a table of contents with five slides: 1. Overview, 2. Agenda, 3. Introduction, 4. Planning Your Trip, and 5. What documents. The right sidebar is the Copilot interface, which includes a search bar, a "What does 'organize the presentation' mean for you here?" prompt, and a "Copilot" section. The Copilot section states "Reasoned in 5 steps" and provides a summary of the presentation's structure: "I've organized the deck into three clear sections so it reads as a logical journey: an Overview (title, agenda, introduction), Planning Your Trip (booking, expenses, what to bring), and On the Trip (communicating and balancing work with leisure). The slides keep their original order, which already followed the agenda — the sections just make the structure explicit and easier to navigate." It also offers a suggestion: "If you'd like, I can also add visual section divider slides between each group, or tighten the bullet wording so each slide is more scannable." At the bottom of the Copilot sidebar, there is an "Edit" section with a prompt "Describe what you'd like to create or edit" and a plus icon. A footer note at the bottom of the slide area states: "This presentation was automatically generated by PowerPoint Copilot based on content found in this document: [document name]".

Tips for editing with Copilot in PowerPoint

Tips for editing with Copilot in PowerPoint

Tips for editing in PowerPoint

- Start on 1-slide and one prompt ask at a time. This is early in the Copilot editing journey and multi-slide, multi-prompt asks are likely to take longer. Start with a clear intent—describe your desired outcome, not every step.
- Use natural language; Copilot understands context and can iterate with you.
- We encourage using existing presentations to see the power of Copilot building in existing decks.
- Leverage web search grounding to bring in the latest data.
- Copilot connects with brand kits, so leverage those.

Well-constructed prompts should include:

1. State your intent or goal (formatting, designing, rewriting, etc.).
2. Copilot in Word leverages WorkIQ, giving you the option to share specific work context either indirectly (ie. "Draft from the latest work emails with my manager") or directly (ie "Draft from the /Manager email", with "/" to find and include specific files, meetings, emails).
